

Review doc:

- First, we need to change the login main page that says review coaching plans or something like that on the main humanedge.health site to direct that link to www.omegalongevity.com and you can discard the old page that was there.
- We need to get this changed to the new color scheme and also make it so we can choose to "not show this again" (which i assume would be a cookie ... so we want it to show again on other devices)... we also would need a link somewhere to "Install App on Phone" or whatever we want to word it, in case somebody X's it out on their phone and then later realized they wanted to do that, but now they can't find the install option.

- I think this is on the looong document list, but I dont know if we want/need "program assignment" because everything is custom... Also, I don't really know how it actually links into the app/experience/coaching... If you could help me understand that, I can decide on if we want to keep it. AftEr all, we may want to get to a point where we have "cookie cutter" templates ready for multiple "Programs" (program assignments)
- Im curious is this is still necessary, again wondering what it links back to and why

- I think i have in the long document (if not add it) that I want to configure differnet categories as "client buys" and make them be sync'able, similar to the check all/uncheck all in each category (which is super handy)... For example, everything in this category 90% of the time will be "Client buys" and its a pain and I always mess up on some of these.

- On that same note, i believe its on the doc, but the full list of what the client gets was not super helpful before, just FYI
- These can probably be removed. The coaching package is really never used and i think its pointless. Coaching PRICE is included in the protocol so its not necessary here

- I need to verify that in the "Protocol Items" list, that the things marked ND (non-discountable) are not being discounted in the other discount screen

- Did I say what to do with the PDF's? I dont think I like them. They are ugly and don't give all the info.

- Also not sure what Copy Link is useful for
- Templates and Program Assignments are confusing (see above as well about Program assignments)
- Sometimes there is a "wait" blue screen that pops up. ZBecause the app is so much faster, its very rare... but when it does show, its the old formatting & colors.
- Im trying to sign in with client account jason@sosupport.net but I am not getting the reset email... I checked junk folder, and the corporate spam filter system - its not anywhere.

- This seems to be working GREAT!

Follow existing routine

Universal Training Principles & Best Practices that can be applied:

- Every set to mechanical failure (cannot complete another rep with good form - NOT true failure)
- Always perform full range of motion unless specifically noted
- Counting DIRECT working volume only (not indirect)
- Goal: progressive tension overload with undulating volume
- Tempo: slow and controlled unless specifically noted
- Rest periods: 60-90s max
- Prioritize nasal breathing throughout all trainingdasfasdfasdfsdfD

- This doesn't seem to have the google places address population system

- I added a new user for client testing, and I am not getting the welcome email- again i checked spam

- Needs centered

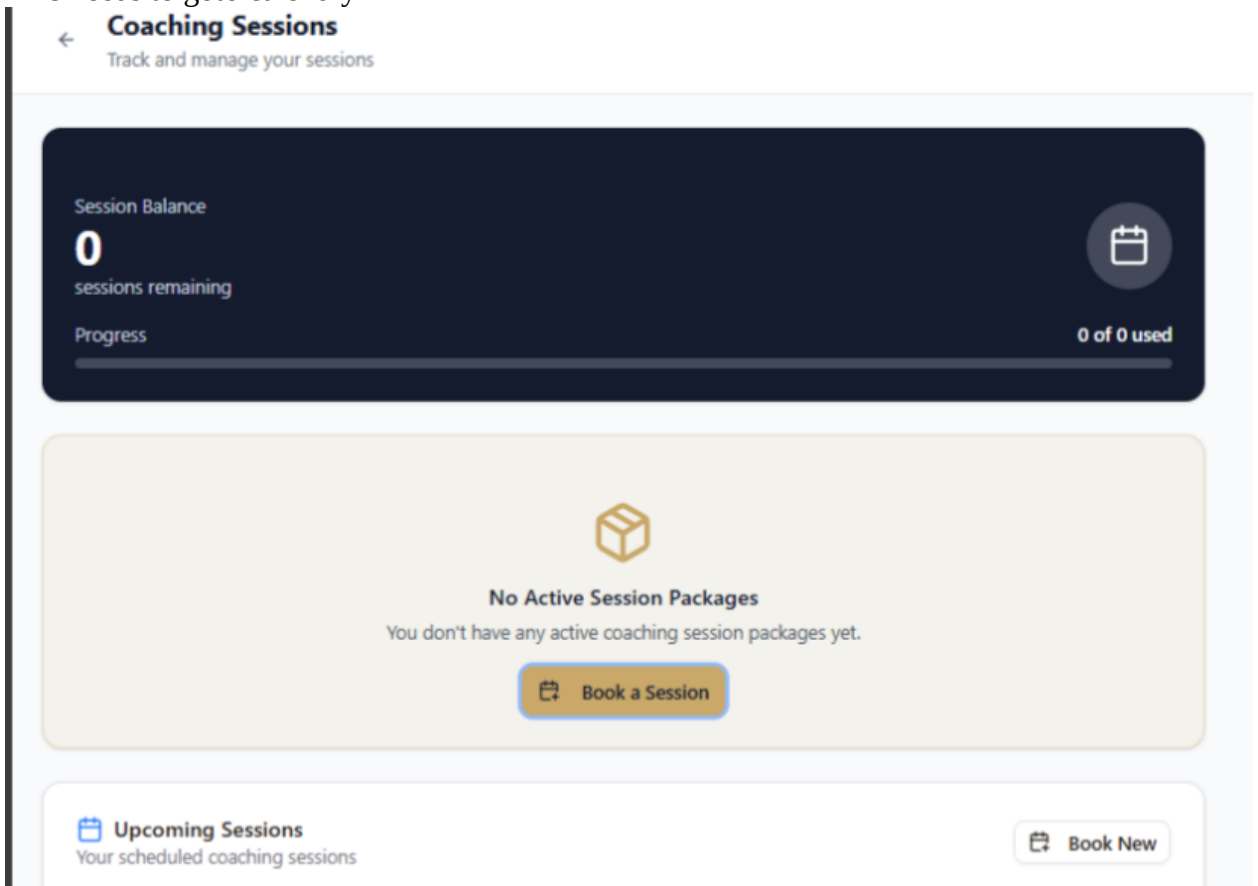

- Launchpad - Please check my notes in the big doc... i want to think that I said to remove all this (except the featured podcast guest)

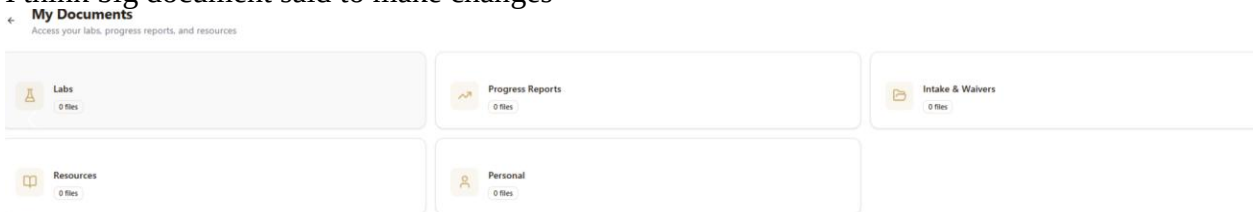

- The rest of that page is the OLD branding - also the testimonials probably need updated to simply match the new testimonials site?

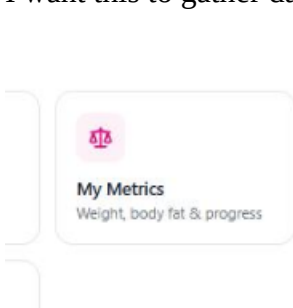

- This needs to goto calendly link

- I think big document said to make changes

- Skim it down per the doc
 - remove My Inventory
- I want this to gather data from the weekly checkins when people put their weight etc. in it

Chat

- Sender names now work. This wasn't a display bug. Three admin screens were each hard-coding the name "Coach", so 316 of the 362 coach messages in production literally read "Coach". Fixed at the source so all five places chat appears are covered at once. Existing history can't be recovered, as nothing recorded who wrote those messages, but every new message carries a real name.
- Duplicate background activity removed. On mobile the chat panel was running twice at once, quietly polling the server every 15 seconds for a panel nobody could see.
- A scroll bug fixed where sending a message dragged the whole page down with the chat window.

- This is awesome
- This seems great, a little above my head and wondering if 829 is where we want to be or is it gonna go lower (again, not sure what it means)
- So does this mean we have one client record/user record etc. for any and all of the same client? if so, that is so great

Data model cleanup

- The table representing a person was named after CRM contacts, which was actively misleading given it holds staff, clients, leads and prospects alike. Renamed throughout the code with zero deployment risk, since the code still points at the existing physical tables. The physical rename is written and waiting for a maintenance window.
 - A required status field made "not applicable" impossible to express, so 6 admins were labelled as leads and 2 as active clients. Fixed in a way that corrects 167 existing queries without editing any of them.
 - Saved addresses were attached to a login rather than a person, so roughly 43 people, including everyone imported from the old platform, could not have an address at all.
 - Coupons removed. These were believed already gone, but only the admin side had been removed; the client-facing coupon box was still live on the protocol page.

- In summary, what percentage of the master doc we made for you is complete? I estimate about 25-50%? Just curious and I don't expect you to have the answer completely - just ballpark estimate

Great work!!

AND -- Vilma Brehonio shared this with me, which I believe takes care of alot of my thoughts above!

This is Farjad's focus for this week:

- Decluttering and consolidation
 - Remove features and pages that have been agreed are no longer needed, along with the unused code behind them.
 - Merge pages that currently serve overlapping purposes, creating a single destination instead of multiple pages with partially duplicated functionality.
 - Continue the approach already taken with the Settings pages and Client Dashboard, which were streamlined into fewer, clearer screens.
- Chat
 - Complete the messaging feature so it works properly for both coaches and clients.
 - Add the ability to edit and delete messages.
 - Fix photo upload functionality.
 - Introduce a basic action item capability.
- Protocol Builder
 - Remove the Programs concept across both the admin experience and the protocol builder.
 - Add support for different protocol lengths.
- Client-Facing Pages
 - Fully overhaul the protocol page, which is the page clients use most after the dashboard.
 - Review all content and functionality, remove anything redundant, and improve the layout for clarity and usability.
 - Consolidate the check-in process, which is currently spread across multiple screens, into a more streamlined and efficient flow for clients.
- Orders and Fulfilment
 - Improve packing slips to include the information needed by the person fulfilling and shipping orders.
 - Surface order notes in the areas where staff already work, rather than limiting access to the Orders view.
